Charity reveals plan for corn exchange

EXCLUSIVE

BY DEBRA FOX

A CHARITY has revealed plans to take over Haverhill Corn Exchange.

Pixelated Projects, a charity focused on educating people in the digital world, hopes to turn the building into a facility for the whole community to benefit from.

It will cost £200,000 to buy the building – but, including equipment, it is expected that the whole project will cost £1.5 million.

Leigh Brown, founder and CEO of Pixelated Projects, needs the public's support for the project to progress.

Its success is largely dependent on fundraising, he said, and the backing of the local community.

Leigh, who grew up in Kedington and lives in Haverhill, said: "I want to stress that this project can only work with the community's involvement."

"It has to be from the grassroots and everybody is welcome to get involved."

Formed in February this year by Leigh, Pixelated Projects educates, demonstrates and supports people in technology, robotics and programming.

The charity can support people on basic, intermediate and advanced levels – from helping to set up an email account, to creating websites.

VISION: Leigh Brown plans to buy the corn exchange, and use it as a base for his charity, Pixelated Projects

Some of Leigh's early ideas for the building include a radio studio, a robotics lab and a lecture hall – but everything is in the preliminary stages.

There will be community spaces for local groups such as Scouts, Guides and local bands, Leigh added, and equipment to hire.

The charity hopes to go out to local schools and other community groups to provide help and resources.

Leigh said: "I am a geek and I have always been a geek – this whole project is about making geek speak normal speak."

The charity has around 70 volunteers working overseas.

Those who wish to take advantage of advice and services will also be able to tune in to "digital channels" – radio and tv channels – and learn remotely.

Even though the corn exchange project – Pixel Exchange – is in its initial stages, there are already calls for similar facilities to be built in Bury, Greater Manchester, Cumbria and outside Berlin.

"I think the corn exchange is almost like a little Haverhill – it's a little bit unloved and needs a bit of time spent on it so it could shine again," Leigh said.

"Everything that may happen elsewhere in the future is going to happen in Haverhill first – the town has been chosen for this pioneering project."

Realistically, the project will take around three years to complete, Leigh said, if there are no "major hiccups".

Initial fundraising ideas include businesses paying to buy a seat in the lecture hall, and local people paying to have their name engraved into a glass wall proposed for inside.

A number of other events will take place over the coming weeks and months to raise money and awareness for the project.

Farmer appeals over wind turbine refusal

AN APPEAL against the refusal of controversial wind turbine plans has been lodged.

James Silles is appealing to St Edmundsbury Borough Council over the refusal of his application for a turbine at Nosterfield End, Haverhill.

Councillors voted against the plans, for a 78m high turbine, in February this year after months of debate.

Officers had recommended the plans for approval – but councillors voted that they were "minded to refuse", and officers had to investigate the legal implications if the committee voted no.

They advised if councillors still wanted to refuse the plan, they should do it on the grounds that it would have "an adverse impact on the landscape".

Mr Silles said: "Our detailed assessments, responses from the expert statutory consultees, and two separate planning officer reports confirmed that this is an acceptable location for a single wind turbine development of this scale."

"We disagree with the position of the planning committee and have chosen to appeal their decision. We look forward to hearing the views of the planning inspector."

Ten councillors voted against the plan, while two abstained and three declared an interest.

RIDING HIGH: Kelsey, pictured at the race on August 23 and inset, centre, in first place on the podium

Kelsey, 16, becomes a British champion

A TEENAGER has taken home a championship prize in a BMX race.

At just 16, Kelsey Dixon has been crowned a winner after coming first in her age group at the British BMX Championships.

The 16-year-old won the female 17-29 category at the event on August 23 at Cyclopark, Kent.

She said: "I was shocked and happy. It was a surprise but when I realised I was winning [the race] I expected it."

Kelsey, of Ladygate, Haverhill, started riding seven years ago.

Now she rides for both Aggro Racing and Braintree BMX Club.

Though the British Championship win is Kelsey's most prestigious to date, the teenager has represented Great Britain in World Championship races.

She travelled to Birmingham in 2012 to compete and visited Rotterdam earlier this year.

Mum Caroline said: "I was ecstatic when she won."

"It was her first major race on that particular bike and she was racing with women a lot older than herself who have been doing it for a lot longer than her.

"She is more into racing now than she was when she started."

Kelsey started BMXing because her dad, Stuart, and brother, Leon, were interested in the sport.

"I really didn't like it when I started," she said.

"I started to enjoy it. I like socialising with people who have got the same interests as me."

Kelsey is about to start sixth form at Samuel Ward Academy in Haverhill.

She will study sports and science, photography and health and social.

She added: "I want to go to university to do something to do with sport like physiotherapy, or PE teaching."

"I love racing but I don't want to do it as a life choice - it's just a hobby."

For more information visit [aggro racing.com](http://aggro racing.com) and braintreebm.com.

Headway's satellite service expands into Haverhill

A CHARITY supporting people with brain injuries has launched a satellite service.

Running from the Burton Centre in the town's Camps Road, Headway helps those with brain injuries and neurological conditions develop skills and improve their cognitive abilities. The rehabilitation service will run every Wednesday.

This means Haverhill patients will no longer have to travel to the charity's main hub in Bury St Edmunds.

For more information or to find out how to make a referral, contact Sue Tate on 01284 702535.

You can also visit headwaysuffolk.org.uk.

Did you have your say in budget consultation?

MORE than 900 people have taken part in a budget consultation survey.

Residents across St Edmundsbury responded to questions on how their council could deliver savings of £1.5 million.

The results will assist in making decisions for the 2015/16 budget.

Cllr John Griffiths, borough council leader, said: "We have been very open on the challenges we face, no decisions have been taken, and the views and suggestions put forward will now be fully considered as we move forward to decide how our budget requirements may be best addressed."

Participants were also encouraged to suggest their own ideas.

Fruit, veg and politics: More time for discussion

MARKET DAY: Shoppers on Haverhill market – but should political parties will be entitled to have a stall?

A DECISION over whether or not political parties and 'pressure groups' should have a place on Haverhill market has been put back to allow for further talks and consultation.

Revised licence regulations were approved by the borough council's cabinet on Tuesday – but provision for political parties and pressure groups will be examined further.

At the meeting, Cllr Alaric Pugh, cabinet member for economic growth, proposed an amendment to allow the hot topic of political groups having a stand on the market to be discussed separately.

"This will enable us to give further consideration to the number of concerns, thoughts and ideas around the debate, so we can ensure we are providing the best possible solution," he said.

Cllr Maureen Byrne, Haverhill's deputy mayor, presented her concerns to the cabinet.

A Labour market stall is held in the town most weeks.

She said: "Most residents use the market on a Saturday or Friday. If you want to plonk us there on a Monday it's unlikely we will get anyone to man the stall and the footfall will be virtually nil.

"It is a deliberate attempt to stop all and any group from having access to their electorate."

The traders she had spoken to had no complaints about political parties, she said, and some also told her they "did not know" the new regulations were up for discussion.

Cllrs Robert Everitt and Sara Mildmay-White are both former portfolio holders for markets.

Speaking at the meeting, they both said extensive consultation had been carried out on forming the new regulations – with only one Haverhill market trader sometimes attending meetings.

Cllr Everitt said: "To say they have not been consulted is not right. They did not come to the meetings, although they were invited."

But Paul Firman, a Haverhill town councillor and fruit and veg stall holder on the market, said that as the town's market federation representative he attended "eight or nine" meetings with the borough council. He, and representatives from Bury, discussed the new licence regulations with them, he said – but the section on politics was something completely new.

Cllr Mildmay-White also criticised Cllr Byrne for saying that no consultation had taken place – which was "absolutely and completely wrong".

Cllr Pugh said everyone's concerns will be addressed going forward, and that the "uniqueness" of Bury St Edmunds and Haverhill markets will be taken on board.

Speaking outside the meeting both Cllr Byrne and Cllr Roger André, town mayor, welcomed the opportunity to discuss the issue further.

Cllr André said: "I am delighted they have taken out the political group part and equally delighted that the regulations are going to be updated. At last some decision is being taken to help us develop our market."

Cllr Byrne added that she was "not confident" their freedom of speech would be the same as it is now.

New face for a happy pre-school

A NEW manager has taken charge of a local pre-school.

Diana André is getting ready for her first term in charge of Happy Faces, on Colne Valley Road.

Staff have been meeting over the summer holidays to discuss how to build on the school's success – and where to go in the future.

Diana, who has worked in nurseries, children's centres and schools over the last 15 years, said: "It's been great working on Happy Faces over the summer, we have done a lot to refresh the building, now the focus is on how we will deliver outstanding care and education."

iPads have been introduced for staff to record children's learning, and parents will eventually be able to log in too.

The little ones will also have iPad access and be able to join in with a range of exciting activities planned for the autumn term.

There are currently places available for children aged between 2 and 5 at the pre-school, which meets between 9.30am and 12.30pm.

For more information contact Diana on 07796260871 or visit happyfacespreschool.co.uk

Thousands up for grabs in hospice lottery

A CHARITY lottery has rolled over with £6,500 now up for grabs.

St Nicholas Hospice Care holds a weekly lottery, with more than 40 prizes available to lucky players.

Forty three prizes from £10 to £1,000 are in every weekly draw, with a £250 prize which is rolled over, if not won.

The lottery increases by £250 each week until it is won or reaches £10,000.

One player is guaranteed to take home the £10,000 if it gets that far. Single tickets for the next drawing, which takes place tomorrow cost £1.

Nick Duncan, hospice fundraising administrator, said: "The rollover prize has been attracting lots of interest, particularly now it has reached £6,500."

To buy a ticket or sign up to play every week, visit stnicholashospicecare.org.uk/lottery.

Single tickets are also available from all hospice shops and the main site in Bury St Edmunds.

Next step for our Let's Read scheme

OUR volunteers met for the first time last week, and we're taking the next steps in helping schoolchildren with reading.

For the past month we have been appealing for helpers for our Let's Read scheme to spare a few hours, each week, to go into local schools and listen to pupils read.

At our first meeting, we answered any questions and collected information about school preferences. Soon, the scheme will be in the hands of the schools.

We're now passing the volunteers' details onto their chosen school – but there's still a place for you if you would like to help too.

Participating schools in the scheme are Burton End Community Primary School, Castle Manor Academy, Churchill Special Free School, Clements Community Primary School, New Cangle Community Primary School, Place Farm Primary Academy, Samuel Ward Academy and Westfield Primary Academy.

If you would like to sign up, you can still contact reporter Debra Fox on 01353 667 916 or email debra.fox@cambridge-news.co.uk.

Volunteers need to be over 18 and willing to have a DBS check carried out.

It's time to improve our emergency service

MEETING: Councillors Roger André and Maureen Byrne

COUNCILLORS will demand answers from the ambulance service in an upcoming meeting.

Cllr Maureen Byrne, Haverhill's deputy mayor, has been a long-time campaigner for a better ambulance service in the town.

Later this month she, and Cllr Roger André, mayor, will meet the local management team from East of England Ambulance Service Trust to discuss major problems.

Cllr Byrne said: "We are hoping to find out what the future holds for us and what they are going to do about these problems. People's lives and health are at stake because of the time they are having to wait."

It is important that EEASt realises the main issues in Haverhill, Cllr André added, and that short-term solutions are put in place.

Part of the plan is to get more ambulances and recruit more paramedics.

Cllr André said: "The key issues are the coverage throughout the week and response times in the town. There's a feeling that response times in Haverhill are much worse than in and around Cambridge."

The councillors have collated examples of poor response times, he added.

Earlier this month, Cllr Byrne quizzed Dr Anthony Marsh, EEASt chief executive, live on the radio about how he and his team planned to address the town's dwindling services.

Speaking on BBC Radio Suffolk, the councillor said Haverhill's ambulance was "not very often sighted" in the town as it was being sent out to other locations.

When it is then needed in the town, it's not nearby, she added.

Dr Marsh agreed that the town's service is "unacceptable" but said that they simply "don't have enough staff".

Steve Segasby, senior locality manager, will be at the meeting. He said: "We have been talking to Haverhill councillors about their concerns over recent months and this is a fantastic opportunity for us to discuss the actions we have taken so far, our achievements, and our plans to continue improving services."

Almost 400 student paramedics have been recruited, he added, and more than 140 new ambulances have been rolled out in the region.

Results from a survey carried out across the county about ambulance provision have just been revealed by Healthwatch Suffolk. More than 300 people took part. The main negative points were waiting times, equipment failures and the "lack of appreciation" for the knowledge of long-term carers.

On your marks for Thurlow 10

A MULTI-terrain race is returning to the region next month.

The Thurlow 10, hosted by Haverhill Running Club, is a 10-mile race which guides runners around country lanes and farm tracks.

The race, which launched in 2011, also provides fantastic views of the Stour Valley. Competitor numbers have been rising year on year.

This year's sponsors are Haverhill Chiropractic Centre, the Dockerill Group, A Jones and Son Ltd and Sweat Shop.

The running club wants others to get in touch if they want to become sponsors or provide services.

The race is built for a maximum of 300 competitors.

Popular races to make return

POPULAR races which attracted hundreds of runners will return for a second year.

The HaverHalf and Haver10 – the town's first half-marathon and 10k – took place in May, with their popularity securing a future in the town's calendar.

Jack Tappin, race director, has confirmed that the events will return in 2015 – but on two separate dates, and with a difference.

The HaverHalf is expected to take place next September, with the Haver10 on the calendar for April.

Mr Tappin, who is currently organising the town's first triathlon, said: "After the success of May's races and the expectation they would continue it's great to be assured that HaverHalf and Haver10 will continue in 2015.

"Going forward I want to

build on the success of this year's races and improve them further as Haverhill continues to provide an ideal setting for hosting flagship athletics events."

Mr Tappin hopes to have about 1,000 runners taking part trying to raise £20,000 for chosen charity St Nicholas Hospice Care.

The races, will be different to last year, he added, with chip timing in place and senior marshals manning the route.

The routes are also expected to change.

Currently, more than 50 entries have been put in for the town's first triathlon, taking place in October.

Participants can choose from a choice of three lengths for the event, which is taking place at Haverhill Leisure Centre.

There are distances suitable for novices and professionals. The super sprint, for 13 and over, is a 200m swim, an 8km cycle and 2.4km run.

The sprint is a 400m swim, a 20km cycle and a 5km run and the Sprint+ is a 600m swim, a 40km cycle and a 10k run.

The Sprint+ is also suitable for teams.

The triathlon is sponsored by Haverhill Research Park.

It is hoped that online entries for both races will open over the coming months.

To register an interest now, email haverhalf@gmail.com.

To sign up for the Haverhill Triathlon, raising money for the Haverhill Scouts and Guides hut fun, visit entrycentral.com/havertri.

Forms can also be collected from Haverhill Arts Centre or the leisure centre.

Improve your IT skills at town library

A SERIES of courses designed to improve IT skills will start next week.

Haverhill Library will educate the community on how to use tablets and e-readers in a scheme supported by councillors.

Cllrs Anne Gower and Karen Richardson have donated £120 each from their locality budgets towards the project.

The money has paid for two Google Nexus tablet computers.

Cllr Richardson said: "I am sure that it will prove invaluable to those members of the community who are perhaps, for one reason or another, the most socially isolated."

Introduction to iPads and iPhones is on September 10, introduction to Android tablets and e-readers is September 17 and moving on with tablets and e-readers is on September 24.

Each course is from 2pm until 4pm and costs £10. To register, call 01440 702638.

Exchange of views as important as selling

OPEN LETTER TO CLLR ALARIC PUGH, CABINET MEMBER FOR ECONOMIC GROWTH, ST EDMUNDSBURY BOROUGH COUNCIL.

ON behalf of the Bury St Edmunds Amnesty Group, I am writing to express our strong concern about proposed changes in the arrangements whereby political parties and pressure groups can book a pitch at the Saturday markets in Bury and Haverhill.

We understand that the rationale for this proposal is that the market should be reserved as "a concourse for buyers and sellers". However is not the exchange of ideas and views of equal importance to the buying and selling of goods? The area taken up by these pitches on a Saturday market is very small and there is no way that a commercial operator could make use of it.

We also understand that the plan is that political parties and pressure groups will be allowed to apply for a Street Vendors' Licence on non-market days or at a location away from the market on market days. However, para. 4.4.2. of the Revised Market Licence Regulations does not refer to the availability of a Street Vendors' Licence on market days so this extension appears very discretionary. On non-market days there are fewer members of the public around and contact would be lost with those who work Monday to Friday. In addition those wishing to book pitches would have to identify supporters who are not at work during the week to run them. There will no longer be a defined pitch as at present. Whilst this proposal may be presented as a reasonable compromise, when considered in detail it is obviously disadvantageous to these groups. It is also unclear if this ban would apply to charities, many of which conduct campaigns which could be described as those of a pressure group.

The present arrangements appear to have worked well and the Amnesty group has never experienced any difficulties with other stallholders when attending the Market in Bury St Edmunds. It is unclear what problems have been previously caused and who has raised objections. This seems to be a change designed to restrict unnecessarily certain groups from publicising their activities and policies to the general public on days when the largest number of people are in the town centres. It seems particularly inappropriate for the council to consider such a measure in a year when it is commemorating the 800th anniversary of the meeting of the barons at the Abbey prior to the Magna Carta.

What's a few quid next to political freedom?

I THINK the St Edmundsbury Borough Council proposal to limit the availability of pitches for politicians and charities is profoundly anti-democratic.

And I say this as someone who is not a member of any political

Your Pictures

THIS week's picture was taken by Keeleigh Nunn in the park in Parkway, Haverhill. "I found this picture really interesting as the dark clouds pass by, the rainbow appears through the wonderful sunlight breaking through," Keeleigh said. ● Send your photos to wendy.davey@cambridge-news.co.uk party nor actively involved with charities. It is essential to democracy that the people and their political representatives (or potential political representatives) have the right and opportunity to meet. Ditto charities. I doubt if ANY customers are off-put by stalls held by politicians or charities. 99.9% of people will ignore them if they do not want them there. It is GOOD for democracy that we are exposed to/allowed to encounter the ideas of others, even if we do not like those ideas. I repeat, the vast majority who are not interested in politicians will simply ignore them. So – allow them to stay!

A few traders don't like it? Well, that's hard luck, I'm afraid. What's the loss of a few quid, perhaps, to the loss of political freedoms?

Thank you for tributes to my later father

I WOULD like to thank you for your kind tributes to my father, Eldon Griffiths, after he passed away in June.

May I also thank so many of your readers for their moving and much appreciated messages of condolence which continue to arrive.

I will do my best to respond to them all but, in the meantime, and by kind permission of St Edmundsbury Cathedral and the Mayor of St Edmundsbury, there will be a memorial and thanksgiving service for my father's life on Wednesday, October 8 at 2.30pm at the Cathedral in Bury St Edmunds.

With best wishes and many thanks again.

Hamlet Road is the town's Cinderella area

IT is interesting but not perhaps surprising that none of the council's proposed surgeries are taking place in the Hamlet Road area of the town.

For too long this has been the Cinderella region. We have the Atterton and Ellis site which now has its front building in a dangerous condition; all the owners have done is to cover the windows of the rear buildings making the site in a disgraceful condition. We have the old Australian Arms which has had its original steps removed and apart from a political poster resembles a forgotten building site. The sorry looking Hamlet House had an application for improvement attached to it – what has happened there?

I appreciate this area is no longer a main entrance to the town, but that is no excuse for it to be left to be one of the most run-down and forgotten sites in Haverhill.

In safe hands: Meet new SNT sergeant

HAVERHILL is in safe hands with the appointment of a new sergeant.

Sgt Matt Gilbert has taken on the role of the town's Safer Neighbourhood Team (SNT) sergeant following the departure of Gary Miller in July.

He joined Suffolk Police in 1997, and started his career in the town as a response officer.

After doing this job for seven years, he moved on to Bury and Newmarket.

He was promoted to sergeant in 2006 and moved on to Ipswich.

Managing the SNT team will be a "new challenge", Sgt Gilbert said.

"I'm looking forward to meeting members of the community and fostering good relations with our partner agencies in order to identify and reduce anti-social behaviour and drug use which can cause great distress to people," he added.

"Further, I look forward to working closely with my officers and promoting police actions in accordance with identified priorities at community, partnership and other meetings."

Before moving to Haverhill, the sergeant worked as a custody and response sergeant.

Sgt Gilbert will attend his first SNT meeting on Monday.

Residents in attendance, and watching live online, will get an update from him and his team on their work since the last meeting in June.

The public will also vote for their next three policing priorities, to be dealt with over the next quarter.

AT YOUR SERVICE: Sgt Matthew Gilbert, of Haverhill's Safer Neighbourhood Team.

Pet service returns to town's church

A POPULAR service is returning to a local church later this month.

This year's pet service, held every year at St Mary's Church, Haverhill, will be on September 21, from 3pm.

Animals of all shapes and sizes are being welcomed into the church, along with their owners, for a blessing.

Last year's service saw dogs, cats and even rats brought into church for the afternoon.

Photos of furry friends are welcome too – and all animals must be brought on leads, or in carriers or boxes.

Capt Andrew Payne said: "All types of animals are welcome, along with their owners or carers for a short service which will include music, interactive video and a time to bless the animals – and humans."

The church hopes to see many familiar faces in attendance at the service – as well as newcomers trying out the experience for the first time.

For more information contact Capt Andrew Payne on 01440 762871 or email adpayne@gamil.com.

The public are welcome to just turn up on the day.

A WEIGHT OFF: Richard Brown, of Haverhill, has lost weight through Slimming World and is now doing lots of walking at various events. Top, Richard pictured – with the Ipswich Town FC mascot – before he lost weight.

How one hot dog seller inspired me to lose five stone

A THROWAWAY comment from a fast food vendor encouraged a football fan to make a lifestyle change.

Now, just seven months on, Richard Brown is 11lb away from a total loss of 5 stone.

Richard, 46, joined Slimming World at the end of January after looking in the mirror and realising how big he was.

On New Year's Day, Richard went to watch his team, Ipswich Town, play a match.

He said: "I went to the same hot dog stall I always go to and he said 'mate, you're putting on weight'. I thought 'he's right'."

"I had a chat with my daughter and she said 'why don't we join?'"

In his first week with the group, Richard, of Mill Hill, Haverhill, lost half a stone.

Before joining, Richard, who works as an office cleaner around the town, would snack on crisps and chocolate throughout the day, eat a "greasy burger" and then have a takeaway.

"Now I have more meals and I eat more food than I ever have done before – and I feel better for it," he said.

As well as swapping junk food for fresh ingredients, Richard has started exercising and is due to take on his biggest challenge yet later this year.

So far, he has walked the Haver10, which took place in May, the St Nicholas Hospice Care superheroes walk and the Slimming World Race for Life.

Richard, who now weighs 12st 7lbs, will walk the equivalent of a half-marathon in November at the Bury St Edmunds Winter Festival.

He said: "This time last year I couldn't walk very far at all – now I can just walk and walk and walk."

"It seems like everything has gone my way for weight loss."

Before his transformation, Richard had slight asthma and high blood pressure. Now, his asthma is gone and his blood pressure is normal.

He also won the Man of the Year award for his Slimming World group.

For more information about Slimming World Groups held in Haverhill, at The New Croft, on Tuesdays and Wednesdays call Tania Watson on 07974565229.

Teenager jailed for three burglaries in town

A TEENAGER who broke into three homes in one night has been jailed for eight months.

Hari Farlie, 19, of Crowland Road, was caught after his fingerprint was found at an address in Kirtling Place, Haverhill.

Ipswich Crown Court heard that on June 10 a woman living at the property saw a shadowy figure in her hallway and thought it was her son.

She later realised it was an intruder and her handbag and keys were missing. Entry was made through the window.

Farlie denied being involved in other burglaries around the same time but later pleaded guilty after his fingerprint was found. He asked the court for eight other offences of burglary to be taken into consideration – including the two also on June 10.

Matthew Morgan, mitigating, told the court that Farlie committed the burglaries after he began using crack cocaine. He had no convictions for burglary before.

Farlie was sentenced to eight months detention in a young offenders' institution.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Tim Law feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Haverhill, Cambridge, Ely, Saffron Walden, Royston &

Newmarket areas and Tim is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Tim a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Little Wonders animal day is making return

A DAY filled with furry friends is coming to town this weekend.

Little Wonders Pre-School Parkway is hosting an animal fun day following the success of last year's event, pictured.

Youngsters and their parents can visit ponies, pigs, chicks, ducks and rabbits before exploring the other activities in store.

Kellie Nunn, of Little Wonders, said: "We're going to have a cake stall, face-painting and other activities for children to try out."

There will also be loom band fun on offer, as well as refreshments.

The sun had his hat on at last year's event, attracting families from across the town and beyond.

Kelly added: "It was really popular last year with lots of different animals coming to the pre-school."

The event is running from 11am until 1pm on Sunday, September 7.

Entry is £2 for adults and children. All funds raised are going towards the pre-school.

Opticians sponsor football team – cue the referee jokes...

TWO youth football teams have been boosted by a new sponsor.

Haverhill opticians Wardale Williams has become an official sponsor of the town's main football club – and will be sponsoring the under-8s and under-6s kits to boot.

The firm will partner the team for the new season, and "hopefully beyond".

Lee Wood, Haverhill Rovers youth chairman, said: "We are absolutely delighted to have received this support from Wardale Williams and we look forward to working with them over the next season and hopefully beyond."

"The youngsters are thrilled to be getting new kits for the season thanks to this wonderful support."

Linda Power, practice supervisor at Wardale Williams, has said Haverhill Rovers play an "important role" in the community.

Sex attack on woman, 19

POLICE officers are appealing for witnesses following an alleged sex attack on a young woman.

The victim, who is 19, was walking home on Sunday between 3am and 4am following a night out in the town centre with her friends.

When she was in Crowland Road, she was approached by a man and assaulted.

The woman lost consciousness for a few minutes, and was found by her friends.

After spending time with medical staff and specially-trained officers throughout Sunday, it was thought that the woman had been sexually assaulted or raped.

Detective Inspector Nick Power: "We would like to renew our appeal for information and we ask anyone who was in the area during the said times on Sunday morning, who hasn't yet been spoken to call us, as you may be able to help us with our investigation."

A 31-year-old Haverhill man was arrested on suspicion of rape and bailed.

He has now been released without charge and will face no further action.

Taking the plunge with the charity icy challenge!

THE region's MP has taken on the charity ice bucket challenge.

Matthew Hancock, MP for West Suffolk, was nominated by Mark Waldron, editor of The News in Portsmouth.

Mr Hancock took the icy plunge in front of his family.

He said: "It was a bit of a shock but good fun and the kids loved it."

"I donated to the Motor Neurone Disease Association."

The ice bucket challenge started in the United States, in aid of the Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS) Association, known as MNDA in the UK.

Celebrities who have taken part include Victoria and David Beckham, Britney Spears and Jennifer Lopez – with members of the public joining in with the craze too.

Each participant is encouraged to nominate others to take part – with Mr Hancock choosing Sajid Javid, equalities minister, Peter Stanley and Emma Jones from Enterprise Nation.

Locally, businessman David Doughty has raised £50 for the Addenbrooke's Charitable Trust through his special ice bucket challenge.

DEBRA FOX

Photographer David dressed as Elvis and charged the public to soak him with ice buckets.

He entertained the crowds between each bucket with classic hits from the crooner. David was raising money in memory of Vera Jewell, who died in May.

A special fundraiser was held in her honour in August, with all businesses in Queens Square taking part.

Paul Lamper, of Coupals Road, was soaked by wife Alison after bragging because he hadn't been nominated.

Alison said: "My husband bragged one night at not getting nominated for the ice bucket challenge, so with the help of a friend I set him up."

"He also had commented that none of his family had done it either as 'they are all wusses'."

Weekly News reporter Debra Fox also took part in the challenge – nominating Lord Jeffrey Archer and Julian Huppert, Cambridge MP.

There will also be train rides, toddler rides, a giant slide and a bouncy castle.

A classic car display and craft fair will also be there on the day, as well as a fun dog show.

I owe my life to a man I've never met ...

SWIM KING: Liam Barnett attributes his success in the pool to a man he has never met, his liver donor

When we last spoke to swimming champ Liam Barnett, he was celebrating winning four gold medals at the British Transplant Games in August 2012, just a year after undergoing a liver transplant. Two years on, he's excelled at the World Transplant Games too – and it's all thanks to the donor who saved his life, he tells Emma Higginbotham

LIAM Barnett is a swimming star. That's official: he has the medals to prove it – dozens of them, including five shiny golds won just last month. But don't expect to see them on display in his Cambridge home. "It's really bad," he chuckles. "I've got them in a bag under my bed..."

He may be at the peak of fitness now, but catch a glimpse of Liam in his swimming kit and you can't help but notice the livid L-shaped scar that crosses his belly – the legacy of the liver transplant that he desperately needed three years ago. "People do stare, but I'm proud of it," says the 27-year-old. "For me, it's a symbol of all the people who gave me the gift of life."

Growing up in Hemel Hempstead, Liam lived to swim. Excelling at freestyle and butterfly, he even competed for his county. But at the age of 13, mysterious abdominal pains stopped him getting into the pool. Tests confirmed that a rare disease, primary sclerosing cholangitis, was causing Liam's immune system to attack his liver and leaving it increasingly scarred.

He controlled it with medication, and continued to thrive at school and then at Bristol, where he captained the university swim team. But as his liver became more damaged, Liam found himself plagued by pain, colds and food poisoning. "My nickname, which I had on the back of my shirt, was 'Sicknote'," he grins.

A change of medication helped and, after graduating, Liam moved to Cambridge to work at engineering consultants Mott MacDonald, where he's still based. He also joined the City of Cambridge Swimming Club, and all was going well until one night in March 2011, when he decided to compete for his old club back in Hemel Hempstead.

"I didn't do particularly well that evening; I got a lot of cramp in my legs. Then the next morning I woke up with the worst pain I've ever had in my life. It felt like someone was scraping my insides out."

Liam was rushed to hospital, where he was diagnosed with peritonitis: "My liver was starting to fail, and it was leaking fluid into my abdominal cavity," he explains. "Doctors had always said I'd need a transplant at some point, but I thought it was way off, maybe when I was in my 40s. But now they said I should start taking it seriously."

Within a week of leaving hospital, Liam was back at work. But a month later, another attack of peritonitis put him in Addenbrooke's for a week. Again he recovered quickly: "but then after about three weeks, I felt lousy."

"I lay in bed all weekend, and went to the doctor on Monday morning. She said 'How long have you been jaundiced?' And I was like 'What?' I was quite shocked. She said 'Go and look in my mirror', and I was all yellow, like a Simpson. It was quite haunting, actually, to see that even the whites of my eyes were yellow. She said 'We need to call Addenbrooke's right away.'" The jaundice was yet another sign that Liam's liver was failing, and he spent the next month in hospital, fully aware that he urgently needed a transplant.

"It's a strange feeling," he muses. "I found myself just wishing to get it done with, but then I realised I was essentially wishing for an accident to happen to someone – and felt sick at myself for thinking such a thing."

He eventually went home, but a third bout of peritonitis saw him back in Addenbrooke's yet again: "and they found that I was starting to become tolerant to the antibiotics, so it was getting dangerous."

It was while Liam was recuperating at his parents' house that summer that the fateful phone call came: a donor organ had been found. And so, feeling "a mixture of excitement and fear", Liam

Liam is passionate about encouraging people to sign up to the Organ Donor Register and, crucially, discussing their wishes with their family. In the UK, 10,000 people need a life-saving transplant, and three die each day waiting. To join the register, call 0300 123 2323, text SAVE to 62323 or visit organdonation.nhs.uk. For their invaluable support, Liam would like to thank Addenbrooke's and the transplant games team; his swimming coaches James Freezer, Simon Morely and Jeremy Latham; the City of Cambridge Swimming Club; and the Kelsey Kerridge Outlooks Gym.

returned to Addenbrooke's for the surgery that would save his life.

The six-hour transplant operation was deemed a success, but the following day Liam took a turn for the worse. During the surgery a main vein had been severed, "and my liver was sitting in about a litre of blood. It was pretty daunting because my family had gone home, then suddenly all these doctors said 'We're going to have to take you back into surgery.' I said to the surgeon 'It will be all right, won't it? He said 'Well, we'll see'.

"That was a bit frightening. Obviously my parents weren't going to be back in time, so I said to the nurse: 'Can I have a hug?' I thought it might have been the last time I hugged anybody."

Surgeons repaired the damage, but unfortunately Liam had yet another internal bleed 10 days later – on his 24th birthday. "It was the third time I'd been opened in a few days. I said 'You might as well put a zip on this thing.'"

Ever the optimist, Liam put all his efforts into his recovery. "I'd make little goals: to begin with it was just washing myself, then I'd go for little walks, but just going downstairs to the foyer was a major challenge." Even sitting was difficult: he'd dropped from 12st 9lbs to just over 9st: "and I had such a bony bum that I had to carry a pillow around to sit down!"

Liam spent six months recuperating, and by January 2012 he was back at work – and back in the pool. That August, he entered the British Transplant Games in Kent, where he excelled, winning four out of four events.

Not surprisingly, he was selected to compete for Britain in the World Transplant Games in Durban, South Africa, last summer, "and I got seven golds – five individual and two relays – in seven world-record times, and I was awarded the best male adult athlete of the Games, which felt pretty good!"

"It's always the dream to represent your country at sport, and now I think 'Wow, I stood at the top of the podium seven times with my country's flag on my chest.'"

SURGERY: The livid scar is a reminder of Liam's ordeal

The World Games were quickly followed by the 2013 British Transplant Games, where Liam won a further five gold medals. But healthwise, his luck didn't hold – and it wasn't long before he found himself back in hospital.

As his medication has been gradually weakening his bones, one morning Liam had a transfusion to re-mineralise them. He returned to work the same day, "but I had to leave at about four because I just felt a bit rubbish, like I had the flu," he recalls. "I went home and lay in bed, and things gradually got worse. I couldn't breathe properly and couldn't move very well, so I called an ambulance."

Suspecting meningitis, doctors tested Liam by giving him a lumbar puncture, which involved putting a needle into his spine to withdraw some spinal fluid. Unfortunately, this caused a severe low-pressure headache, "and it really affected me badly. It was actually a worse pain than my transplant because it was in my head – I had to lay down flat, and I couldn't open my eyes. It went on for about three weeks, and it was awful."

"I had to have a procedure to fix it, which was scary because they said there was a chance of paralysis if it goes wrong, so that was a bit hairy..."

Happily it was a success, and Liam was back in the pool, training hard, as soon as he could. And right now he's riding high: at the British Transplant Games in Bolton last month, he once again scooped five out of five golds, and again won the best male adult athlete award. "Sometimes I think maybe I should give others a chance," he says. "But I'm also competing against my body. I could get ill one year and not be able to do it, so I need to make hay while the sun shines."

Liam had better make some room in that under-bed bag of his as, all being well, this time next year he'll compete at the World Transplant Games in Argentina. Then there's all the other medals he picks up in mainstream races too... "I think about when I was in hospital and things were touch-and-go, and I think wow, I've come pretty far," he admits. "But it's only because of something that someone else has given to me."

Liam doesn't know anything about his donor other than it was a man in his 40s. "The time I think about him the most is probably the anniversary," he says. "For me the anniversary is a joyous thing: it's when I got a new lease of life. But obviously for someone else it's when a loved one was taken from them, so it's a mix of emotions really."

Does it make him love life more? Liam smiles. "Well it certainly changes your perspective on what matters. One of my closest transplant friends, Lee, who helped me through my transplant, died last year. And another friend, Mike, has now got liver cancer and they won't give him another transplant. We climbed Table Mountain together in South Africa last year and it made us realise you need to do these things while you can."

"With transplants, there is every chance that organs can fail at any point, as the body is naturally trying to reject the organ, so it's not unreasonable for me to think that my life might be a bit short. So it makes me think 'Right, what do I want to do?' And what I want to do is to do well at swimming. When you've been ill, you realise that there's nothing better than being fit and healthy."

"You've got to do what makes you happy, because life can be a bit short, and a bit brutal. But I never ask myself 'Why me?'" he adds. "I see myself as lucky. I was the lucky one who got a transplant – and got it in time."

Cambridge Film Festival

WE'VE all been worried about the Cambridge Arts Picturehouse, what with the Competition Commission's final decision on its future still unclear. And never more so than when it's home to the always exciting, always ground-breaking Cambridge Film Festival – now in its 34th year. And no-one does better popcorn.

Running until Sunday, the Cambridge News-backed festival boasts highlights from the quirkier, off-the-wall strands and the big Hollywood hitters, to the fun-packed family specials, pithy shorts, searching documentaries and director Q&As.

Highlights include the closing film on Sunday, which this year will be the traditional surprise film! Obviously we can only speculate on what it might be but in previous years Burn After Reading, Looper, Sunshine on Leith and Pirates of the Caribbean have all been the surprise movies. Whatever it is, it'll be great, guaranteed.

But before that, on Friday, shake off work, load up on dreams and watch SPARK: A Burning Man Story. This documentary – full of light and drama and madness – focuses on Nevada's week-long arts festival, which sees a city of fun, games, music, spirituality and self-expression just spring up out of the desert. Provocative, extravagant and independently made by director Steve Brown, it goes behind the scenes, noting the challenges and joys faced by the organisers and by the 60,000 festival goers that make it happen. It's also completely beautiful.

Also on Friday, Bill Nighy, Imelda Staunton, Dominic West, Paddy Considine and up-and-comers George McKay and Joe Gilgun (that's what you call a cast list) star in Pride. It's set in the summer of 1984; Thatcher's trying to close the mines, the miners are on strike, and London's Gay Pride Marchers are raising money for them. But the unions are embarrassed by it, so the marchers jump on a minibus and go find some miners themselves to hand the donation over to. Powerful, witty, intelligent stuff, your heart will be warmed and your brain will be worked.

And on Saturday, director Skip Kite is expected to present his documentary, Tony Benn: Will and Testament. A powerful exploration of the Labour MP's epic life and career, it patchworks intimate interview material with photos and filmed footage from Benn's personal archive and tracks his work across Britain. It promises to be a "fitting testament to a forceful orator whose tongue was as sharp as his mind".

To honour some of the best films on show, each year the Cambridge Film Festival runs the Audience Awards. Before each "in competition" screening, you'll be handed a voting card on which you can rate the experience. You're going to feel exactly like the Oscars' board of directors no doubt. The Golden Punt award goes to best feature, the Silver Punt crowns best documentary and the Crystal Punt goes to the greatest short film. Enter the fray and pick your favourites.

Events in the 34th festival take place at the Arts Picturehouse (38-39 St Andrew's Street, Cambridge) and some other venues; tickets for all are available from the Arts Picturehouse Box Office on 0871 902 5720 or via cambridgefilmfestival.org.uk.

Visit cambridge-news.co.uk/whatson for reviews, competitions and the latest on the festival.

Blood Brothers

BLOOD Brothers gets no less heartrending, regardless how many times you've seen it.

Written by Willy Russell and first performed in 1982, it's the classic story of twin brothers Edward and Mickey, separated at birth and brought up in entirely different worlds.

Over the years their paths collide, pulling along Linda, a friend of Mickey's they both go and fall in love with, and the consequences are catastrophic.

The musical has racked up numerous awards, from Olivier to Drama Desk trophies and the odd Tony Award nomination too; has repeatedly stormed the West End (notching up more than 10,000 shows, becoming one of only three musicals to have ever done so) and it still has the energy, soul and charged atmosphere to leave you a shivery, weepy mess (in a good way, of course).

It's now back on tour, thanks to Bill

Kenwright Ltd, and stopping off this week at Cambridge Arts Theatre. Do not miss it – and take a hanky, you'll be sobbing.

■ Blood Brothers, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until Saturday, September 6, at 7.45pm. Tickets £15-£35 from (01223) 503333 / cambridgeartstheatre.purchase-tickets-online.co.uk.

film of the week

BEFORE I GO TO SLEEP (15, 92 mins)

THERE has been a rich harvest of taut thrillers in 2014, including the independent American features Blue Ruin and Cold In July and gritty British films Locke and Starred Up.

With David Fincher's adaptation of Gone Girl looming on the horizon, this is undoubtedly a year when audiences will catch themselves returning to filthy habits and furiously biting their nails in the dark of an unbearably tense cinema.

Before I Go To Sleep is guaranteed to jangle nerves and drop a few jaws as summer mellows into autumn.

Based on SJ Watson's bestselling novel, this ingenious thriller places us in exactly the same hellish predicament as the heroine, who wakes up each morning without any memory of the past, including her own identity.

Through the eyes of this terrified wife, we absorb scraps of information from supposedly reliable sources and try to piece together the truth, unsure if writer-director Rowan Joffe is leading us a merry, sadistic dance.

Following a car accident, 47-year-old Christine Lucas (Nicole Kidman) is diagnosed with anterograde amnesia.

Each morning, she wakes in a strange bed next to a man she does not know and creeps into the adjacent bathroom where a series of photographs on the wall begin to fill in the blanks, letting her know that the man is her husband Ben (Colin Firth) and they have shared many happy years together.

"You store up information for a day, wake up, and it's all gone," explains Ben, whose love for his wife holds strong.

He leaves for work and Christine continues to learn about her past from information in the house.

Then she receives a mysterious telephone call from someone called Dr Nash (Mark Strong), who instructs her to look in the wardrobe.

"We've been keeping a video diary. I'm not sure Ben knows," confides the medic.

The subsequent footage casts doubt on the facts that underpin Christine's fragile existence.

"Don't trust anyone!" whispers Christine to herself in the video diary, tears glistening in her eyes.

As Christine reconnects with Claire (Anne-Marie Duff), who is supposedly her best friend, contradictory testimonies drive her to the brink of insanity.

Before I Go To Sleep drip-feeds us fragmented flashbacks, clouding our judgement of characters as they orbit Christine, purportedly out of love.

Kidman captures the fragility of a woman at the mercy of her condition, who knows she must stare into the abyss before sleep robs her of a day's detective work.

Firth and Strong offer sterling support and Joffe cranks up the tension masterfully with each hairpin twist.

The guessing game of who to trust is part of the film's diabolical appeal and the script engineers some wonderful bluffs until a gasp-inducing big reveal that should have audiences teetering precariously on the edge of their seats.

How to store your surplus

IF you are now inundated with ripe tomatoes, green beans, berries and herbs, don't leave them to go stringy or mouldy because the freezer can go a long way to making your crops last into winter.

Blanching newly-picked vegetables before freezing them is a great way to avoid waste. It stops enzyme actions which can cause loss of flavour, colour and texture. Blanching cleans the surface of dirt and organisms, brightens the colour and helps retain vitamins.

Just plunge vegetables in boiling water for a minute or two and then drain in a colander and transfer them into ice cold water to stop the cooking process, then let them cool and dry them off, place them in freezer bags and store in your freezer until you need them.

You can do this with a range of vegetables, from runner and French beans to sweetcorn, broccoli, carrots and peas, although blanching times may vary.

Of course, we all know the texture of tomatoes changes as soon as you freeze them, but they will still be good for pasta sauces and stews in the months to come.

Strawberries, too, change their character when they've been frozen, but you can make some delicious desserts, jams and sauces using frozen berries.

Blackberries, which cost a fortune in the

by Hannah Stephenson

shops but grow wild among hedgerows in the countryside, can be picked and frozen. Instead of squishing the newly-picked fruit in a freezer bag, place the berries flat on a tray and put them in the freezer, then once they're frozen they can be transferred intact to bags and placed back in the freezer.

Herbs, too, can be preserved to add to soups, casseroles and sauces long after you've harvested them. Just place a small amount of the herbs into ice cube trays and cover them with water. Then, when you want them you can just take out one or two cubes to add to your dish.

Some herbs, such as parsley, can be frozen as whole bunches and kept in bags in the freezer. When you want them, just take a handful from the bunch and crumble them into your dish.

If you like flavoured oil to go with your balsamic vinegar, use sprigs of rosemary, or whole chillis and other robust herbs to add to your bottle of olive oil, leaving it for the flavour to infuse.

End-of-season tomatoes can be 'sun-dried' in the oven, putting them on a tray at the lowest setting for a couple of hours with the oven door just ajar.

If you're running out of freezer space and have enough jam and chutney to keep you going until the next millennium, you may just have to find inventive ways to use up your produce.

Juicing fruit and veg is a good way of using surplus, although juices will have to be drunk immediately before they oxidise, start changing colour, lose nutrients and look much less appetising.

Really efficient gardeners only grow what they know they're going to eat – so perhaps, as you look at your glut of courgettes, peppers, radishes and tomatoes, you need to rethink your vegetable plot next year to avoid any ending up on the compost heap.

And remember, only freeze the best of what you grow. If your green beans have gone stringy, they are still going to be stringy when you get them out of the freezer in a month's time.

JAGUAR'S iconic 1960s E-Type has won the race to be crowned the "greatest car of all time" in a new poll of motorists, writes Scott D'Arcy.

The car was put at the top of the podium from a list of 100 by more than 2,000 British drivers quizzed by One Poll for the Discovery Channel ahead of the return of its Wheeler Dealers show next week.

It beat seven other British classic vehicles, including the Mini, Aston Martin DB5 and Rolls-Royce Silver Ghost, to head the top 10, and also won the poll for greatest classic car.

The Porsche 911 and Volkswagen Beetle were the only foreign representatives in the top 10 of the all-time survey, finishing third and fourth respectively, while Ferrari's F40 span into 11th.

Meanwhile, the Ford Capri won the title of the ICONIC: The E-Type Jaguar has always been a firm favourite car they previously considered "embarrassing" but would now be proud to own, fending off the Morris Minor and Triumph Stag.

The show's presenters, who restore classic cars to their former glories, hailed the result as a victory for British engineering.

The show's car trading expert Mike Brewer said:

"This research underlines the incredible heritage of British car manufacturing, where originality, style and performance have been the hallmarks of many of our greatest cars. As the classic car market continues to boom, we're seeing many popular productions being snapped up as future classics."

Edd China, fellow presenter and mechanic in the show added: "It's good to see the Capri and the XR3i now joining the pantheon of classic popular production cars. As we unveil our 100th car in the series, we'll be aiming to return another hidden gem to its former glory."

Last October an original E-Type sold for £88,000 at auction, while in May this year the Jaguar placed third best British car behind the 1959 Mini and McLaren F1 in a poll of Autocar readers.

The Wheeler Dealers all-time top 10:

- 1 Jaguar E-Type
- 2 Mini
- 3 Porsche 911
- 4 VW Beetle
- 5 Aston Martin DB5
- 6 Rolls-Royce Silver Ghost
- 7 Aston Martin DB9
- 8 Aston Martin V8 Vantage
- 9 Rolls-Royce Phantom
- 10 Aston Martin Vanquish

Double delight for junior Stevenson

OLLIE Stevenson had two reasons to celebrate after victories in club competitions at Haverhill.

Junior member Stevenson triumphed in the Social Committee Cup, and won the Junior Foursomes with Ollie Fish.

A score of 41 points saw Stevenson take the Social Committee Cup stableford competition, which had handicap limits of 18 for men, 21 for junior boys and 30 for ladies and junior girls.

He was just one point ahead of another junior, Alice Iron, who qualified by winning the ladies' August Saturday stableford with a score of 39.

Derek Thomas took third on countback from Jason West after both scored 37.

Stevenson and Fish scored nett 74 to take the Junior Foursomes, two ahead of runners-up James Iron and Dan Bentley.

Haverhill welcomed 23 junior golfers from across Suffolk for their Boys' Open, which was won by Newton Green's Jed Sealey with a gross 73.

Clubmates Harvey Watts (74) and Ben Tatum (76) were second and third respectively.

Haverhill's Ben Bradnam finished runner-up to another Newton Green junior, Kieran Sorrell, in the handicap competition. He was two behind the leader with a nett 67.

The host club's Matthew Carpenter won the stableford competition for players with a handicap of 29 or above, scoring 36 points. Harry Proctor, also from Haverhill, came second with 25.

Sally Price won the ladies' midweek stableford with a score of 39. Linda Alexander was second on 35 and Sheila Price one point back in third.

Betts praises senior players after victory

PETER Betts was full of praise for his players, especially the senior members, following Haverhill Rovers' 3-1 win over Ely City in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division.

The caretaker boss brought in a number of players from the club's under-18s squad and was delighted with how they fitted into the team.

The opening goal came in the 29th minute when Ely's James Seymour was adjudged to have handled the ball in the area, and Dalton O'Brien powered home the penalty.

Ely had barely settled when Ben Robinson took advantage of some sloppy defending to make it 2-0.

Rovers made it 3-0 early in the second half with another goal from O'Brien.

Ely netted a late consolation.

Despite that setback, Betts was delighted with the performance.

"The biggest positive from the game was that we had a lot of young, local players," he said.

"We had a game plan and it was pleasing to see the players take that on board.

"Marc Abbott produced the best display I've seen from him for a long time. It's good to see senior players like him, Stuart Kingham and Sam Holmes stand up and be counted. That's a big help for the young players."

But they were dealt a blow in mid-week with a 6-0 defeat to Stanway.

Haverhill Borough continued their impressive form in the FA Cup by winning 2-0 at Whitton United in a preliminary round tie.

The hosts had their centre-half sent off for a two-footed tackle on Ross Elkins and in the 35th minute Borough exacted further punishment when Ryan Weaver scored.

Martyn Pallant made it 2-0 two minutes later when he met Ben Bradley's free kick with a towering header.

On Wednesday, Borough eased to a 3-0 win at home to Cornard.

Goals from Martin Westcott and Weaver made it 2-0 after 15 minutes and just over 10 minutes later, Luke Latham netted the third.

Mistley put to sword in Plate

HAVERHILL eased into the first round of the Suffolk Plate with a 51-0 trouncing of Mistley.

In the preliminary round tie, the strong wind was good for tactical kicking but made place kicking difficult, with only three of nine conversions making it over the bar.

Haverhill took their time to register their first points, but once prop Darren Smith had charged through three tackles to get the opening try after 20 minutes, there was no looking back for Haverhill.

Jake Jeffs and Adam Hunt then touched down, with Kieren Ewens kicking a conversion.

It remained 17-0 at half time, but Haverhill went further ahead six minutes into the second half through Hunt's second try, which Ewens also converted.

Joe Brown's 40-metre run was finished off by Jeffs for the fifth try, and skipper Mickey Lansdowne was on hand to make it 34-0.

On 70 minutes, Paul Bergin touched down a maul for the line, and Collins Musavengana grabbed two tries to complete the victory.
